

The Bio of Adam Weitz

Adam Weitz has been entertaining crowds since he was two years old. Musical memories he has of early childhood is singing next to his grandfather playing piano, singing prayers and disco with his twin brother on his father's lap, recitals, and Sunday with Sinatra. Adam was singing and dancing on stage with his father's party band at all types of events such as weddings, youth events, institutions, and corporate functions.

After being exposed to the entertainment industry in his early years, Weitz partnered with a large DJ entertainment company by the age of 23. Using his natural ability to entertain crowds and breaking into the latest multimedia trends, Weitz began to construct what was the foundation of a Corporation started in 1997 called "A Sharp Production" (Huntingdon Valley, Pennsylvania). The basis of this business was to continue to entertain local clients like his family before him. This was a tradition that Weitz held very dear and never wished to change.

And while this newly formed business was in motion, he continued to market his talent nationally which has created positions for himself as Executive Director. This opened up doors as a spokes person for Entertainment Conventions, a Seminar Instructor, and stage performer for larger audiences. Weitz also reveals that one of his passions is behind the scenes of large concert productions and play "roadie". This past week he assisted in Sammy Hagar & Aerosmith's concert when they came to South Jersey. Adam Weitz also enjoys the tradition of following in his father footsteps and supporting dozens of other organizations to assist in helping disabled children such as the Variety Club of Delaware valley, where he volunteers as an entertainer and MC for fundraisers. He also enjoys donating his production and talent where he can to help generate monies for these organizations.

But this Entertainer didn't stop there. Adam Weitz has been involved with countless organizations servicing information and educating people in the music industry for 20 years. During annual conventions, thousands of entertainers from around the globe pour into this weekly expos to see what headliners like Adam Weitz has in store for them. Weitz is renowned for his Unorthodox Seminars which teach even the most educated Entertainers the understanding of inner business skills that will grow their industry.

In his national competitions, Adam Weitz was competed four times since 1997, and came in first place twice, which includes this year as ...the 2010 "DJ Times Entertainer of the Year". Weitz thinks the award is "pretty cool for marketing", but says that really does this to educate the young DJ talent that enters into this industry. "They get younger each year and the industry gets easier and easier to tap into this market with everything being so VIRTUAL. You have to expose these newcomers and set the margin so they can see where they are on the food chain, and how much they are going to have to put into this industry to survive. We are all brothers and sisters so it is our responsibility to help each other grow". (Weitz quoted from Spinning with the Stars, Atlantic City Press)
